General informations

Extrovert and enterprising character	I am very sociable in nature, curious and always stimulated towards new knowledge and new goals. These characteristics of mine have been refined during the periods of team sports and during my ten-year experience in the field of volunteering at the "Elba Group" founded Don Andrea parish priest of the church of Bagno a Ripoli.

Leadership	Thanks to my work experience in the organization of events and management and control of an advertising campaign, formed by a staff for a well-known wholesale food distribution company SOGEGROSS, where I managed to get positive results and consents from of the staff and the client despite my young age.
Problem solving	Thanks to the experience gained in organizing events, in the kitchen as a cook aid and in the cellar as a cellarman, I developed skills in approaching and solving all the problems that occurred during the work phase managing to complete the commitments always taken with professionalism and seriousness.
Planning skills and strategy	During the University period, I have always planned my work and study commitments, always trying to be organized and efficient. Even more so for about 3 years I have organized musical and gastronomic events, creating a staff adapted to the needs of the project, designing communication strategies both through social networks and through public relations, with satisfactory results.
Organization skills	I have combined my organizational skills in my work by developing projects of various kinds and exploiting these skills to organize an annual group of friends with intercontinental journeys that have enriched me greatly from a cultural point of view.
Listening skills	I developed these skills in the field of public relations, where I was able to listen to and know types of people with different tastes, always approaching me in a very open way to diversity, never discriminating.
